The Salvation Army Correctional Services Program Overview

The Salvation Army is a Christian Nonprofit Organization with a mission of spreading the Gospel thru humanitarian activities in the community as well as mending the broken spirits of individuals in need.

As part of their ministry The Salvation Army in West Palm Beach has different programs designed for specific clientele. One of those programs is Correctional Services, in which the entire program is designed to work with offenders.

The Salvation Army Correctional Services is a Contract Facility with the Federal Bureau of Prisons to provide rehabilitation and transitional services to offenders.

1- Institutional Transfers-These are inmates serving the last part of their sentence referred to our facility from federal prisons to help them rebuild their family and community ties. These offenders are not violent and not a threat to society.

2- Public Law Cases-These are offenders presently under probation or parole that are designated to our facility because they violated the conditions of their probation or parole. These cases are referrals from The United States Probation Office.

3- Direct Court Commitment -These are offenders that are assigned to our facility as an alternative to incarceration. These offenders are referred to us by the United States Federal Courts.

4-Pre-Trial Case These cases are assigned to our facility by the United States Federal Courts as a condition of their bond. These individuals have not received a sentence yet; their stay at our center depends on their sentencing date.

5- Misdemeanor Probation Case These are offenders that are presently under County Probation for a Misdemeanor Case. These offenders report to our facility once a month and a Case Manager, monitor the compliance of the offender's condition of probation.

6- Electronic Monitoring Cases-They can be either federal or county cases. The offenders reside at their residence and an electronic device is attached to their ankle. This electronic device is connected to a central computer that monitors every movement of the offender.

7- Home Confinement Case These are Federal Offenders that are not in need of closer supervision and they reside at their residence under the supervision of our staff members. Offenders under this program are required to report to our facility twice a week and staff members are required to visit the offender twice a week, once at their home and once at their job site.

The Institutional Transfers, Public Law, Direct Court Commitment and Pre-Trial Cases, they all reside in our facility. Misdemeanor Probation, Electronic Monitoring and Home Confinement Cases, they reside at their home under strict supervision by well-trained staffs.

All offenders participating in any of the above programs are required to work and be self-supported. Drug and alcohol screening are performed on a regular basis to assure that all offenders are drugs and alcohol free. The main objective of these programs is to modify the negative behavior and reinforced with positive behavior. This task is accomplished thru group and individual counseling covering the following topics: Drug and Alcohol Counseling, Employment Readiness, Aids Awareness, Parenting, Stress and Anger Management, Money Management, Women's Group and Men's Group.

The ultimate goal of The Salvation Army thru their Correctional Services Department is to assist the offender in their reintegration into society, while ensuring the safety and welfare of the community. These are accomplished by gradual privileges with continued compliance to Program requirements and completion of set goals. We use a "Holistic Approach" with special emphasis in Self-esteem, to prepare each of these offenders to be better persons and a good asset to society.
