Description:

According to the National Coalition on Domestic Violence, 10 million people are physically abused by an intimate partner and 1 in 15 children are exposed to domestic violence in a given year. Youth that are exposed to domestic violence are at greater risk for mental and physical health difficulties. This intermediate level presentation will briefly explain domestic violence, explore myths surrounding abuse, examine the impact it has on children's and adolescent's health, and provide treatment recommendations for working with survivors of and youth exposed to domestic violence.

Learning Objectives:

- 1) Participants will be able to explain the definition of domestic violence.
- 2) Participants will be able to describe the impact of domestic violence on children and families.
- 3) Participants will be able to identify ways to respond personally and professionally to survivors of and youth exposed to domestic violence.

Presenter:

Danniella Jones, Psy.D. earned her bachelor's degree at Berry College in Rome, Georgia and her doctorate degree at Spalding University in Louisville, Kentucky. She completed her doctoral internship at Cherokee Health Systems, an integrated primary care and community mental health center in Knoxville, Tennessee and her post-doctoral fellowship with Palm Beach County Youth Services Department at Highridge Family Center. Dr. Jones is currently a psychologist at the Education and Training Center where she provides clinical supervision to doctoral trainees, conducts family therapy and psychological evaluations, and offers trainings and outreach to the community. She has conducted research related to race-based stereotypes and evidenced-based practices for treating complex trauma. She has experience working as a victim advocate in a sexual assault/domestic violence shelter and as a therapist at a center that provides services for survivors of interpersonal trauma. Her professional interests include working with high risk, underserved, and diverse youth as well as with survivors of interpersonal trauma and common comorbidities such as self-harm, substance misuse, etc.
