ULDC Use Regulations Project 2012-2013

The last comprehensive review and update to ULDC Use Regulations were undertaken in 1992 and 2003. The ULDC Use Regulations Project is schedule for 2012 - 2013, and will include research, analysis, and discussion of definitions, supplemental standards, and approval processes of the existing uses in the Code. This project will require considerable staff coordination of multiple tasks and careful assessment of the history of current regulations to determine if changed circumstances warrant revisions. This will include identification of new industry trends or other public models of regulating uses in an effort to simplify our current regulations.

We will also be providing ample opportunities for input and participation from interested parties, industry, business owners, land development professionals and the public in general, among others, through the establishment of a specific Zoning Web Page, and by coordinating multiple Land Development Regulation Advisory Board (LDRAB) Subcommittee meetings
