Description:

The family therapy didactics are a three part series, beginning with Genogram Assessment, followed by Structural Family Therapy and Strategic Family Therapy. The Genogram presentation will allow for participants to learn the structure of making a Genogram and explore how different family systems are depicted. This intermediate level presentation will explore the clinical implications of Genograms and when they are useful in practice as well as historically how they have been employed.

Learning Objectives:

At the conclusion of the training, participants will be able to:

- 1) Describe the history and background of using genograms in practice through evidence-based sources.
- 2) Identify which situations genograms are useful and important for clinical care.
- 3) Demonstrate the utility of genograms and evaluate how genograms impact clients in session.

Presenter:

Kelly Everson, Psy.D. is co-owner and Florida Licensed Psychologist at Palm Beach Behavioral Health and Wellness. Additionally, Dr. Everson serves as the Training Director for PBBHW's psychology training programs. Dr. Everson specializes in psychotherapy and assessment of children, adolescents and families. Dr. Everson is experienced in group therapy with adolescents and parents, individual therapy with children, adolescents and adults, and family therapy. Dr. Everson leads the Autism Spectrum Clinic at PBBHW and primarily works with children, adolescents and adults diagnosed with ASD. She has worked with this population since 2006 and feels renewed every time she sees change in her clients- particularly when they have social victories! In addition to ASD, Dr. Everson has worked with a variety of presenting problems, including Attention-Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), mood disorders, peer pressure and bullying. Dr. Everson received her bachelor's degree in biology and psychology from the University of Wisconsin in Madison and continued her education at the Illinois School of Professional Psychology in Chicago, earning a Master's and Doctorate in Clinical Psychology with a specialization in Family Psychology.
