In order to receive a certificate you must be present for the entire training. Zoom monitors attendance from the time each participant logs in and out of the training. Exceptions will not be granted.

Description:

Non-suicidal self-injury (NSSI) is recognized as a significant public health concern. Vulnerable populations and adolescents are at elevated risk of engaging in NSSI. The presenter will lead participants in a discussion regarding non-suicidal self-injury, its prevalence, populations who are at-risk, reasons for engagement, and methods to assess and intervene. Slides will be used as a visual aid. Anonymous case study information will be shared to illustrate points. A question-and-answer session will further engage participants.

Learning Objectives:

At the conclusion of the training, participants will be able to:

1. To analyze prevalence rates of NSSI in children, adolescents, and vulnerable populations
2. To explain etiology, underlying factors, and functions of NSSI
3. To identify effective assessment and intervention strategies for children, adolescents, and their families

Presenter:

Dr. Diane Kelly Andreou earned her bachelor's degree from the University of Miami and her master's and doctoral degrees in clinical psychology from Nova Southeastern University. After completing internship at the Oklahoma Department of Health, she returned to south Florida for a post-doctoral fellowship with the Child Protection Team at the University of Miami's Mailman Center for Child Development. Dr. Andreou has worked as a training director, continuing education provider, and director of an outpatient behavioral health clinic.

Currently, Dr. Andreou is a clinical psychologist at the Palm Beach County Youth Services Department's Education and Training Center. She specializes in cognitive-behavioral and family therapy, evaluation, and training and supervision of doctoral interns and trainees. She has worked with children and families for over 25 years, utilizing practical, evidence-supported interventions that emphasize individual and family strengths to facilitate positive change. She is also mother to an adolescent and highly invested in providing quality interventions to ensure today's kids are successful adults.
